FOUND DEAD IN WOODS

Body of Unknown Man Found Near Lucas County Hospital.

The badly decomposed body of an unknown man was found in the woods about a mile and a half southwest of the Toledo State Hospital. The man had evidently been dead for two or three weeks. There was nothing by which he might be identified at once. The body was turned over to Coroner Storz of Lucas county.

The man was 5 feet, 8 inches in height, wore a 7-8 hat, had dark hair, and was 30 or 40 years of age.

Coroner Storz is of the opinion that the man suicided or else lay down to sleep and never awakened.

GEORGE W. FEARNSIDE.

The popular county treasurer, custodian of the common peoples' funds, appears on the ticket this year for re-election and county official never deserved it more. He has served the people faithfully with common courtesy to all and shows a set of books that balance to the penny. His association with other county officials has been so congenial and void of friction as to commend him in the highest terms. He is unostentatious and quiet in demeanor. He will not meet you with brass bands but when you have business to transact in the treasurer's office you will find him a congenial, courteous gentleman ever ready to extend every favor consistent with his requirements as a faithful official.—Beacon.

GOOSE BONE MAN

Predicts Cold Weather for the Coming Winter.

Mike Seitz, the old original goose-bone man, was asked by the B. G. Tribune what the goose-bone said about the coming winter.

Mr. Seitz stated that he had not had an opportunity to examine a goose-bone yet this year, but that he had looked at a duck-bone which indicated that the winter would be a severe one and that a long period of continued cold weather could be expected. Mr. Seitz was of the opinion that the fore part of the winter would be if anything much more severe than the latter part.

AN UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS

Presbyterian Gentlemen Win Fame and Fortune as Entertainers.

The social given by the gentlemen of the Presbyterian church at the home of J. F. Brandhuber, Friday evening, proved to be one of the most enjoyable social functions of the season.

The host and his aides had exerted themselves to have the affair strictly up-to-date, and well they succeeded. The dining room appointments were superb, and right here the crucial test came to many a wavering heart. It was only after such epicures as Aldermen Peck, Geo. A. Powers, Dr. W. H. Rheinfrank and other members of the refreshment committee had demonstrated their faith in the digestibility of the viands prepared that the guests were induced, albeit with fear and trembling, to partake thereof. (And right here we will add, parenthetically, that a certain spinster—doubtless chagrined that her services on such occasions could be displaced by horrid men—confided to the writer that the reason the resources of village physicians and hospital were not taxed on the occasion was because the guests present largely obeyed the law made and provided for the government of polite society, and refrained from over-indulgence.)

The evening's enjoyments were brought to a humorous close in a novel manner—the holding of an auction, in which the auctioneer, Alf. Averill, sold to the ladies biscuits, doughnuts, etc., left from the feast, as keepsakes and souvenirs of the occasion, and as material evidences of the culinary ability of the genial hosts.

From a financial standpoint the social was likewise a marked success.
